A VPN for your phone, or a VPN for your computer? Nowadays, all kinds of technology are coming out that is related to the internet. And as the internet becomes more and more important in our lives, so does being connected to it at all times. This has caused a rise in the creation of new technologies. One such technology is a VPN. VPNs used to be mainly used by companies who needed their employees online no matter where they were working from. VPNs would allow them to connect to their business networks through third party computers, or they would use their smartphones. Nowadays, VPNs are not only used by businesses, but also by individuals. VPN stands for Virtual Private Network. Basically it turns your phone into a network with its own IP address. The Self-Service: - The self-service version of HMA!
